

Table with columns for identification numbers, names, dates, and numerical values. The table contains multiple rows of data, likely representing a list of records or transactions.